

PASSED INTO HISTORY.

R. Escamptment Finished Its Labors and Adjourned.

EXAN ELECTED SURGEON GENERAL

ers for the ensuing term were chosen and the organization closed its labors.

Alto, N. Y., August 27.—The second of the Grand Army of the Republic encampment was opened at 9:15 o'clock morning, General Clarkson presiding. The session, like that of yesterday, was very private. Guards with muskets at the door and only those with the foreign were admitted. The election of officers, from senior vice commander down, taken up under the order of business, Alfred Lyth of Bidwell-Wilkinson senior, was unanimously elected senior commander. Major A. J. Smith of post presented his name to the convention. The nomination was seconded by Mel Shaw, commander of the department of New York. The adjutant general instructed to cast the vote of the encampment for Mr. Lyth.

When the nominations for junior vice commander in chief had been declared, Congressman Pickler of South Dakota, who was chairman of the committee on the last congress, endeavored to nominate for his State. Commander in Chief Clarkson, however, was out of order, but Mr. Pickler persisted, and the ruling of the commander in chief was sustained. Mr. Pickler yielded great reluctance.

David McKay of Dallas, Texas, a member of the Seventy-ninth New York, was elected unanimously senior general of the Grand Army.

The first ballot for junior vice commander did not result in a choice, but later adjutant general was instructed to cast vote of the encampment for Francis A. of Hartford, Conn., the candidate of Naval Veterans' association.

Mr. Frank C. Bruner, pastor of the First Baptist Episcopal church of Chicago, unanimously elected chaplain in chief.

Commander in Chief Shaw of the department of New York offered a resolution providing that the last Sunday in May be observed as memorial day and spoke at length in support of it. The resolution was adopted.

The usual courtesy of the encampment extended to the Woman's Relief corps committee was admitted to the floor. The report of the auxiliary organization. The committee consisted of Mrs. J. O. of Ohio, national treasurer; Miss Clara Burleigh, Massachusetts; of the Woman's Relief corps home of Massachusetts. The report contained a synopsis of the work done by the Woman's Relief corps. The new officers were inducted and the encampment adjourned at 6 o'clock to meet at Cincinnati in 1898.

The committee from the Woman's Relief corps was admitted to the hall and presented the convention with several beautiful floral emblems and made a brief report of the work of the Woman's Relief corps for the past year. Mrs. Woodley, national president of the Army Nurses, who also admitted to the convention, like "Mother" Ransom of California, 82 years old, the oldest army nurse living, and Scott, who spoke for the colored veterans who were unable to attend the encampment.

Among the reports receiving favorable consideration in the executive session of encampment was that of the pension committee. It recommended a readjustment of widows' pensions and presented a bill to amend the pension law. The same as those in force during the Harland administration. The report also recommended that congress pass a service law to apply to all veterans who reached the age of 62 years.

FATALITY WOUNDED.

Senator Pritchard's Brother Shot by a Negro Desperado.

Atlanta, Ga., August 27.—A special from Georgia, N. C., says: George K. Pritchard, brother of Senator Pritchard of North Carolina, who is the sheriff of Mitchell county, was fatally wounded today while attempting to arrest Monroe Garland, a noted desperado, near Cloudland. Garland, after he had shot Pritchard, turned on Deputy Black and began firing, but Black was too quick for him and shot him twice, either one of which would have been fatal. Garland died in a few minutes, and Pritchard was taken to a nearby house and surgical aid sought. His wounds are regarded as necessarily fatal. Pritchard is 41 years of age and has a large family. The affair has created great excitement in the neighborhood of Bakerville, where Pritchard lived.

Miraculous Escape of Passengers on an Engine.

Chattanooga, Tenn., August 27.—An engine of the Dade Coal Mining company's narrow gauge railroad jumped the track while on a trestle near the top of Sand Mountain yesterday afternoon, fell a distance of twenty feet and rolled nearly to the bottom of the mountain, taking trees down with it. Connor of this city, who was caught under the tender and had two ribs broken and was badly shaken up. A Mr. Shedd, who was on the engine, but escaped, St. Louis was on the train. A Horse From Foote Bros' Stable, Houston, Won the Massachusetts Championship-Baseball.

Waco, Texas, August 27.—Manager James M. Drake of the Waco baseball team is home again from the final contest at Paris. He said to The Post correspondent last night: "I have finished the baseball season after a very hard struggle, and feel satisfied and confident that Mr. Heurmen, the president of the Texas league, will award the pennant and Henshew cup to Waco. The managers of some of the Texas clubs have made an awful fight for these honors, but Mr. Heurmen is a man who will do us all justice, and I feel safe in looking for his award to Waco. I finished my schedule right to the letter and finished first and have had my team together to play off, but on account of the Southern teams dropping out, it gave me a lead that no team could overcome, and all disbanded without playing with me."

TO COLONIZE FARMERS.

Booth-Tucker Explains the Scheme He Has in View.

New York, August 27.—The World says: Commander Booth-Tucker returns to America filled with enthusiasm over his plan to colonize poor people on small farms in the West. He submitted the plan to General Booth in London and it was commended by the leader of the Salvationists in every detail.

When a reporter asked him about the various criticisms that have been raised, he said: "I am prepared to meet every objection to this plan. I have made a practical study of it. I have submitted it not only to General Booth, but to many prominent business men in this country and to the editors of newspapers who are familiar with the sections where the colonies will be established, and I have yet to find one who does not give hearty approval."

"The Salvation Army will undertake the organization of an association and will endeavor to secure sufficient funds for a fair trial and to secure only such colonists as are desirable. We need $500,000 to start with. We will secure a tract of irrigable land in Colorado or Utah, which will be paid for in installments."

"For several years I was an officer of the British government in India and I know the practical results of irrigation. There can be no question of good crops each year. We will divide the land into ten-acre farms. We will build a cabin or small house on each farm, have the land ready for cultivation and each family that joins the colony will find work in readiness and a bank account of $200 to its credit."

"The colonists will pay for the land in installments at the rate of perhaps 5 per cent. We believe these colonists will come from largely populated centers near the West."

"We need a large section of land; we must get it as cheap as possible; it must be irrigable. We are unable to find these conditions in the East. We have resolved on a colony of land near Pueblo, Colo. Claus Spreckels, the sugar magnate, has offered to give $100,000 towards the establishment of a colony on these lines in California. The Western railroads have shown the greatest interest."

"This is not a socialist scheme; it is on a purely business basis. It is not a cooperative scheme, for we believe in individual ownership. In Colorado families are able to make a comfortable living and save a little money by farming five acres of land."

Jack Everhardt and Kid McPartland on Monday Night.

"The old rule will be abolished," said Manager Ryan, "and I am satisfied that no man can go to an arena to return with the knowledge that he has witnessed a drawn battle. It is immaterial to me who wins, but I have with the management of the club, given orders to Referee Duffy that he must decide the matter if it lasts twenty rounds. Now, by the way, I do mean to say that there can not be a draw, yet the chances for such a termination are narrowed greatly. If both men are equal throughout it would be an injustice to decide anything but a draw, but still, to matter how slight the advantage one has over the other, the lucky boxer will win the verdict."
